

Dr. Thomas E Hutson is recognized internationally as a leader in the field of urologic cancers, has authored over 500 scholarly works which includes original research, monographs and book chapters, is regularly invited to speak at medical venues around the world, and has been the clinical lead investigator on several international research trials. He has had leadership roles in several national research groups including the Sarah Cannon Research Institute where he has served on the GU Research Executive Committee and co-led the Phase 1b/2 clinical trial program. He is the editor in chief of the Kidney Cancer Journal and The International Journal of Medical Case Reports along with serving on the editorial boards of Expert Review of Anticancer Therapy, Cure, among others. Dr. Hutson practiced at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas, Texas for 21 years and served as the Co-Director of the Urologic Cancer Research and Treatment Center as well as the Director of the Swim Across America supported Innovative Clinical Trial Center. Currently, he is the Director of the UMC Cancer Center, Director of Oncology, Division Chief of Hematology and Medical Oncology and serves as a Professor of Medicine, Urology, Cell Biology and Biochemistry for the Texas Tech University Health Science Center School of Medicine in Lubbock, Texas. He holds the CH Foundation Endowed Chair and a joint appointment as Clinical Professor of Pharmacy Practice at the Texas Tech University Health Science Center School of Pharmacy.

Dr. Hutson received his medical degree from Ohio University Heritage College of Osteopathic Medicine and a Doctor of Pharmacy degree from Ohio Northern University. He completed Residency in Internal Medicine, Fellowships in Hematology and Medical Oncology as well as Experimental Therapeutics at the Cleveland Clinic.

Faith and the relationship between religion and medicine has been of particular importance to Dr. Hutson. He has pursued several additional degrees including a Master of Divinity degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky; a Master of Biblical and Theological Studies degree from Dallas Theological Seminary; a Master of Public Health degree from Yale University; a Master of Science in Healthcare Leadership degree from Brown University; and a Master of Jurisprudence degree in Healthcare Law and Policy from Texas A&M School of Law.

Dr. Hutson is married with two sons and resides at his Knox City ranch when he is not in Lubbock.

